Tri-County Transit to Pilot On-Demand Shuttles

CLAYBURN (May 6)—Tri-County Transit will launch a six-month trial of on-demand shuttle service in three suburban neighborhoods beginning June 2, the agency announced on Tuesday. — [1] —. Rather than following a fixed route, the shuttles will pick riders up anywhere within a designated zone after they request a trip through a smartphone application or by phone.

The program is intended to address a long-standing gap in coverage. Many residents of Westmoor, Pine Hollow, and Garrison Flats live more than a kilometer from the nearest bus stop, and a ridership survey conducted last year found that the distance discouraged them from using public transit. — [2] —.

Fares will match those of the agency's regular buses, and transfers to bus and rail lines will be free. — [3] —. Agency spokesperson Elena Voss said that if demand meets projections, the service could be extended to additional neighborhoods as early as next spring. — [4] —. The agency will assess the trial by tracking the number of trips taken, average waiting times, and rider satisfaction scores, which will be published on its Web site each month.

158. What is the article mainly about?

(A) The construction of additional bus stops
(B) An increase in public transit fares
(C) A trial of a flexible transportation service
(D) The findings of a recent ridership survey

"Officials hope that the new service will help close that gap."

E-mail

To: Facilities Team

From: Ingrid Solberg

Date: February 9

Subject: Conference room upgrades

Hi all,

As you know, several employees have complained that the video equipment in our conference rooms is unreliable, particularly in the Harbor and Summit rooms. After reviewing quotes from three vendors, management has approved a proposal from Vantage AV to replace the cameras, microphones, and display screens in all five of our meeting rooms.

Installation will take place over two weekends so that regular operations are not disrupted. The Harbor, Summit, and Cedar rooms will be upgraded on February 21–22, and the remaining two rooms the following weekend. Vantage technicians will need access to the building from 7:00 A.M. on both Saturdays, so I would appreciate it if someone from this team could be on site to let them in.

Once the work is complete, Vantage will hold two 30-minute training sessions on the new equipment. Please encourage the department assistants who schedule our meetings to attend one of them. The dates will be announced once installation is finished, and recordings will be available on the intranet for anyone who cannot attend.

Ingrid

Brennan Foods Bets on Plant-Based Line

By Malcolm Reyes

For most of its 70-year history, Brennan Foods has been known for canned soups and frozen dinners sold in supermarkets across the Midwest. Next month, however, the company will introduce Verdant, a line of plant-based meals aimed at younger, health-conscious consumers.

The decision follows two years of declining sales in the company's core frozen-food category. "Our customers' habits are changing faster than we anticipated," said chief executive Laura Brennan, granddaughter of the company's founder. "We needed to reinvent ourselves, not simply adjust a few recipes."

Rather than build a new production facility, Brennan has converted part of its plant in Dalton, Ohio, which had been operating below capacity. The company says the conversion cost less than half of what a new plant would have required and allowed it to retain about 120 workers who might otherwise have been laid off.

Industry analysts are cautiously optimistic. Grocery chains have expanded shelf space for plant-based products, but competition is intense, and several larger brands have recently lowered their prices. Verdant meals will initially be sold only through the company's Web site and in 300 stores in Ohio and Indiana before a planned national rollout next year.

Ms. Brennan acknowledges the risk but says the company has little choice. "If we wait until the market settles, someone else will have taken our place on the shelf," she said. The company plans to review sales figures after six months before deciding how quickly to expand production.

164. What is the article mainly about?

(A) The opening of a newly constructed factory
(B) The retirement of a company's founder
(C) A merger between two food manufacturers
(D) A company's effort to adapt to changing consumer preferences

165. What is mentioned about Brennan Foods' frozen meals?

(A) Their sales have declined recently.
(B) They will be discontinued next month.
(C) They are now made in a different plant.
(D) They are sold mainly online.

166. The word "reinvent" in paragraph 2, line 6, is closest in meaning to

(A) transform
(B) repeat
(C) discover
(D) invent

167. What is suggested about the plant in Dalton?

(A) It was not being used to its full potential.
(B) It will close before next year.
(C) It employs more than 300 workers.
(D) It was built two years ago.

| To: | Rafael Ortega |
| From: | Simone Achterberg, Northlight Publishing |
| Date: | April 4 |
| Subject: | Your manuscript |

Dear Mr. Ortega,

Thank you for submitting your manuscript, Rivers of the Andes, for consideration. Our editorial board reviewed it at its meeting last week and was impressed by both the depth of your research and the clarity of your writing. — [1] —.

We would like to offer you a contract for publication in our Travel and Natural History series. Our standard terms include an advance of $8,000, payable in two installments, as well as royalties of 10 percent on print sales and 25 percent on digital sales. — [2] —. A copy of the proposed agreement is attached for your review.

Before the book can go into production, however, our editors recommend several revisions. In particular, they feel that the chapters on the northern regions could be condensed and that the book would benefit from additional maps. — [3] —. Our design team can prepare the maps if you are able to supply rough sketches or reference materials. Our editors would also be happy to discuss these suggestions with you by phone or video call at a time that suits you.

We hope to receive your signed agreement by April 30 so that the book can be included in next year's spring catalog. — [4] —. I look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
Simone Achterberg, Acquisitions Editor

Questions 172-175 refer to the following online chat discussion.

Priya Menon (10:02 A.M.)
Morning, everyone. Quick check on the Lindqvist account—where are we with their warehouse lease renewal?

Jonas Weber (10:04 A.M.)
The landlord sent revised terms last night. They're proposing a 6 percent rent increase, but they'd cover the cost of resurfacing the loading dock.

Priya Menon (10:05 A.M.)
That's more than we budgeted for. Lindqvist was expecting something closer to 3 percent.

Aiko Tanaka (10:07 A.M.)
For what it's worth, the dock repairs alone would cost around $40,000 if Lindqvist paid for them.

Priya Menon (10:08 A.M.)
Fair enough. Can someone put together a comparison of the total costs over the five-year term?

Jonas Weber (10:09 A.M.)
I'll have it ready by noon.

Liam Carter (10:11 A.M.)
I can pull the maintenance records for the dock if that would help make the case to the client.

Priya Menon (10:12 A.M.)
Please do. I'd like to present both options to Lindqvist on Thursday.

Aiko Tanaka (10:13 A.M.)
Should we also ask the landlord whether they would accept a shorter term? Lindqvist mentioned they might relocate in three years.

Priya Menon (10:15 A.M.)
Good thought, but let's keep it simple for now. One decision at a time.

GO ON TO THE NEXT PAGE

(A) The terms of a lease renewal
(B) The purchase of a warehouse

(A) It was suggested by Lindqvist.
(B) It includes the cost of a new warehouse.
(C) It is larger than the client anticipated.
(D) It will take effect immediately.

174. At 10:07 A.M., why does Ms. Tanaka write, "For what it's worth, the dock repairs alone would cost around $40,000"?

(A) To object to paying for the repairs
(B) To suggest that the landlord's offer may be reasonable
(C) To correct an error in the budget
(D) To recommend a different contractor

175. What will Mr. Weber most likely do next?

(B) Prepare a cost comparison
(C) Meet with the client
(D) Contact the landlord
